The presentation of the Inaugural World Leadership Day Award on May 6, 2008 marks a significant historic event for Australia, Regional Australia and most importantly the Winner Joshua Phillips of Orange Christian School.

"It is an honour to present Joshua Phillips with the WLD Award and $250 Prize at his home ground, the Orange Christian School Assembly in the presence of his class mates and teachers who energetically supported the participation in the WLD Essay competition<sup>1</sup>," says Elisabeth Gortschacher, Founder and Australian Ambassador World Leadership Day, with a sense of pride.

Dr Graham Mackay of Coaching Works Pty Ltd Armidale, NSW, Australia is an active member of the Australian WLD team and a proud sponsor of the Inaugural WLD Award Prize.

"Now in its third year, World Leadership Day 2009 will see a rapid growth in WLD Ambassadors and participating countries around the globe. WLD is the voice behind a new way of leading and being in the world. It speaks to the youth and people of all ages who want to, and are already contributing to a more human world where love for each other prevails.

Love in this sense meaning honoring, respecting each person for who they are and acknowledging and encouraging their innate leadership potential" says Elisabeth with passion and conviction.

Our WLD Vision: a world that recognises, engages and nurtures the expression of the innate leadership in every person.
